AUCTION NO. 100

AMOSKEAG MARCH 29, 2014 - SALE NO. 100 - SILENT

TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF SALE

ONLINE CATALOG

Sale #99 will be our first auction which has no printed Silent Auction Catalog.

While we know all enjoy or full color live auction catalogs, we increasingly feel that in this digital age, a printed silent auction catalog is not only un-necessary but also an additional draw on our natural resources.

The entire catalog will viewable, searchable and printable online by visiting our website. In addition to the benefit having the catalog be searchable, we will also be able to publish color photographs in an online catalog and we will be able to "convert" the printing time to writing time enabling us to include more items in the auctions.

The silent catalogs run between 70 and 100 pages generally and many people bid on only a handful of items. Customers will be able to search the catalog, find the items they are interested in and print those select pages and bring them to the office with them to make additional notes during preview. Bid forms are also downloadable and can even be filled out online and emailed.

We understand that people generally are resistant to change and because our consignor's interests are paramount, we will monitor silent auction activity and we will listen to all of those with respectful comments, suggestions and ideas.

edges and the cartridges rate excellent; (1) Remington U.M.C. green and red dog bone box containing 38 rds. of Kleanbore lubricated 22 LR ammunition. The box rates good overall having darkened with age, separated but enclosed endflap and rounded edges and the cartridges rate about very good overall with light oxidation on the lead projectiles and brass cases; (1) Remington Hi-Speed Kleanbore faded red and green box containing eight rds. of 22 LR rimfire blanks and seven rds. of assorted 22 LR rimfire ammunition. The box rates poor with a split cover and missing detached endflaps, the cartridges rate very good overall; (1) Western Super-X yellow and red box containing 32 rds. of 22 LR rimfire blanks. The box rates fine with light scuffs and dirt staining and the cartridges rate excellent. (56229-A15-18) [Elliott Riggs Collection]

The box rates very good with lightly rounded corners and 1277. BEEMAN R1 PNEUMATIC BREAK ACTION RIFLE serial #923840, .177 caliber, 19 5/8" barrel with a bright excellent bore.

The metal surfaces retain about 95-98% original blue toning lightly to brown with some very minor light scuffs and scratches, with loss primarily on the top of the frame and underside of the barrel. The checkered pistolgrip Monte Carlo stock rates fine with a handful of light handling marks and blemishes and is equipped with a solid rubber recoil pad. This single piston air rifle is capable of velocities of 950 FPS, and is equipped with an adjustable trigger, globe style front sight and an adjustable rear sight. A near excellent condition "adult" air rifle. (56513-1) (400/600)

The top label remains 98% intact with minor light scuffing and perhaps one or two light tears along the edges. The box itself rates excellent with some light staining and the cartridges rate excellent with lightly mellowed brass cases. (56387-60A)

1279. REMINGTON U.M.C. BOX OF 50-70 CENTRAL FIRE AMMUNITION This is a two-piece natural colored cardboard box with green top label of 20 rds. of 450 grain round nose 50-70 Government Ammunition. 1281. ORIGINAL MANHATTAN FIREARMS COMPANY POCKET MODEL BOX

This is an about excellent example of an original Manhattan Firearms Company two-piece box for the Manhattan Pocket Model revolver. The box is covered with brown marbled paper with interspersed pink marbling. The lid label features a crisp image of the gun, projectiles and the manufacturer's name and address in black ink, showing remnants of some light pencil marking as well. The base of the box is blue-paper covered, all of the seams are intact and tight; there is a small 2" piece of the lid's edge missing at its lower left front corner. In the interior is a small softwood cartridge block drilled for 15 rounds of 22 RF and a small steel wiping rod which is likely original. The interior of the box has some old pencil writing which reads "Samuel Kemp January the 1866", the last name cannot be definitively ascertained due to some soiling. An absolutely super example overall in a very seldom-encountered state of condition. (36229-A34) [Elliott Riggs Collection] (1500/2000)

1282. ORIGINAL MANHATTAN FIREARMS COMPANY POCKET MODEL BOX

This is an excellent example of an original Manhattan Firearms Company box. The box is covered with brown marbled paper, somewhat more orange in hue than other examples in the sale. The lid label is mostly crisp with some light foxing and a small ink stain which has obscured one of the cartridges and a small portion of the backstrap of the gun; one corner has scuffed-away from the years and there is a tiny bit of loss near the front of the grip. The base of the box is blue-paper covered and all of the seams appear original and intact. The interior of the box has a very neat period-applied cut-out in the form of an image of Gen. George McClellan, the interior and the appliqué showing some light foxing. Really an extremely nice example overall in a very fine state of condition with an interesting period appliqué just awaiting your minty Manhattan Firearms Company Pocket Model revolver. (36229-A30) [Elliott Riggs Collection] (2000/2500)

1283. ORIGINAL MANHATTAN FIREARMS COMPANY POCKET MODEL BOX

This is a very good plus example of an original Manhattan Firearms Company box which will accommodate the Manhattan Pocket Model revolver. The marbled paper covered lid features some red marbling interspersed with the brown and the image on the lid label is slightly light but still fully visible. The company name and address are much bolder, the top edge of the revolver and the top cartridge slightly difficult to see. The base of the box is blue-paper covered showing only some light scuffing. The edges and corners show some light restoration but the box is all present, the lower portion showing some very light mildew in some spots. The lid has a very light compression but overall this is a nice and very respectable original Manhattan Firearms Manufacturing Company box for their Pocket Model revolver. (36229-A32) [Elliott Riggs Collection] (1000/1500)

1284. MAYNARD BARREL LOT This lot consists of a part octagon part round barrel for a Maynard 1882 model rifle. The barrel is 26 1/2" and is .36 caliber (likely 38 cal.) with a bright excellent bore. The barrel retains about 90% faded plum blue and is a very nice period re-lining, with eight-groove right hand twist rifling. The barrel is completely unmarked but for the serial number on the underside near the lug "3199" along with a number "16" ahead of it at the base of the lug. The checkered walnut forend rates very good plus to excellent showing a nicely repaired chip from its right edge, the original piece having been re-affixed, also showing some very nice grain figure. The front sight dovetail is blank and there is no rear seat. A very nice Maynard barrel with a wonderful bore, a quality accessory for your Maynard arm. (36106-15A) [Warren Greatbatch Collection]

1285. FINE STEVENS-STYLE SINGLE SHOT FALLING BLOCK BARRELED ACTION BY KEN BRESIEN serial #1, 32-40 Win, 31 1/4 part octagon part round barrel with false muzzle, turned for starter, and a bright excellent, likely unfired, bore. The metal surfaces on this neat custom single shot rifle are in-the-white and are mostly a silvery gunmetal with the barrel showing an overall smattering of the very light surface oxidation which would polish easily. The barrel is drilled and tapped on the flats for target blocks, the holes are vacant and there is a vacant dovetail near the muzzle for your choice of front sights; the tang on the action remains un-drilled-and-tapped. The gun is equipped with a nice spurred finger loop style lever and double set triggers. Currently the set trigger does not kick off the hammer but both are very sluggish and it is likely due only to hardened oil; the front trigger works properly. The original brass starter is included at the muzzle. The underside of the barrel is marked "SSB-100", the top of the action is marked "K R Bresien/Warsaw NY" while the face of the 44 1/2-style action just beneath the barrel is marked "K R Bresien/#1<". Ken Bresien was an extremely talented gunsmith and this fine action is awaiting only your choice of quality sights, high-quality wood and final polishing. (36106-19) [Warren Greatbatch Collection] (1000/1500)
1286. MAYNARD BARREL LOT This lot consists of a part octagon part round barrel for a Maynard 1882 model rifle. The barrel is 24" and is .25 caliber with a very good bore showing strong rifling but with some sparsely scattered light oxidation or very light pitting. The barrel retains about 85% faded plum blue and is a very nice period re-rifling by Stevens. The top flat to the rear of the rear sight seat is marked "Rebored & Rifled/by J Stevens A & T Co./Chicopee Falls Mass. USA", while the underside of the barrel near the lug is numbered "3940". The checkered walnut forend rates very good with some minor dings and handling marks. The front sight dovetail is blank and shows some file marks, the rear seat has a simple hand-made semi-buckhorn sight in place. A nice Maynard barrel overall, nicely re-rifled and marked by Stevens Arms. (36106-15B) [Warren Greatbatch Collection]
1287. QUALITY WARNER TOOL COMPANY SIGHT This is a Warner Tool Company #1 fully adjustable aperture receiver sight. The sight is as-new and shows no evidence of ever having been mounted. It is numbered on its bottom "WTC/910-912". The sight comes with instructions and parts list and is in its original shipping box. There is a brass aperture adapter (bushing) in place, no aperture is present. An absolute top-quality target receiver sight for the serious competitive shooter. (36106-741) [Warren Greatbatch Collection] (350/550)
1288. SMITH & WESSON LIGHT RIFLE MAGAZINE This is a blued 20-round magazine for the Smith & Wesson light rifle. The magazine rates excellent overall retaining 98 to near 99% original blue with the follower a dull aluminum tone. There are some very tiny abrasions on the floorplate. An excellent magazine for the Smith & Wesson collector or light rifle owner. (36332-141A)
1289. SMITH & WESSON LIGHT RIFLE MAGAZINE This is a blued 20-round magazine for the Smith & Wesson light rifle. The magazine rates excellent overall retaining 97 to near 98% original blue with the follower a dull aluminum tone. There are some small abrasions on the floorplate. Another excellent magazine for the Smith & Wesson collector or light rifle owner. (36332-141B)

1290. UNMARKED PERCUSSION SCHUETZEN RIFLE About .48 cal., 31 1/2" octagon barrel with false muzzle and a poor heavily oxidized bore showing no remnants of rifling. The barrel is an overall brown patina with light oxidation showing moderate and heavy oxidation and pitting on the first half of the barrel ahead of the forend tip; the false muzzle is oxidized in place and will not move. The rifle is sighted with a globe style front with small lollipop insert, the rear sight has had its aperture removed and is now functioning only as a blank and the tang wears a nice diopter-style aperture sight adjustable for windage and elevation. The lockplate and the base of hammer show some very nice quality loose flowing scroll, the scroll at the rear partially lost to light pitting. The top of the hammer is a gunsmith-made replacement which is somewhat rudimentary, shows tool marks and is un-engraved. The breech and the long tang show some nice quality engraving, the diopter sight seat silverplated brass also lightly engraved. There is a silverplated brass nose cap showing some lovely engraving, somewhat squarish triggerplate with engraved front and rear extensions and bow, heavy Schuetzen butt which is silverplated and shows some nice engraving on the top tang with small sprays on the lower tang, and a nice engraved sideplate. The stock rates about very good showing good original varnish and minor dings and handling marks from the years with drying cracks at the left stock flat and behind the right lock flat. The rifle is equipped with a single set trigger and the lock is mechanically functional. Overall an attractive Schuetzen rifle that was very nice in its day, sadly suffering from some neglect over the years. (36485-1) (350/550) (ANTIQUE)

1291

1291. SWISS PERCUSSION JAEGER AND SCHUETZEN RIFLE About .42 cal., 34 1/2 octagon barrel with an oxidized bore which shows some bright spots but with moderate pitting nearer the muzzle. The barrel is an overall moderately oxidized brown patina with pewter undertones. It is sighted with a globe front sight with no insert, the rear sight seat is vacant as is the hole on the tang for a diopter peep. The top of the barrel was maker marked, it can no longer be discerned only "Winfelden 1829" is legible. The lock is rather Spartan as well, it is a gray and brown oxidized patina and features a rear-mounted dog catch; the nose of the hammer showing an old welded repair. The stock is brass mounted with chiseled ramrod ferrules, simple but heavy fingergroove triggerguard and heavy unadorned Swiss butt. The lock is hand-detachable using wingnut-style lock screws. The rifle is equipped with double set triggers which currently do not function. The European walnut stock rates about good with overall minor dings and handling marks from the years, also showing a break completely through the stock beneath the lock through the triggerguard and back through the left stock flat; there was also a large chip between the upper rear surface of the lock and right side of the tang which has been re-affixed; a similar 2" chip is missing atop the front portion of the lock. The rifle is equipped with sling swivel provision and the use of an open rear sight suggests it was dual-purpose for both hunting and precision shooting. A quality Swiss rifle in its day. (35720-6) (ANTIQUE) (250/450)

1292

1292. MEDITERRANEAN FLINT-LOCK PISTOL This was a rather ornate pistol in its day, about 68 cal., 13" barrel with an oxidized bore. The barrel shows remnants of a medial rib running most the length of its top surface with remnants of chiseled-in-relief loose scroll, the barrel transitioning to octagon at the breech. There are sunken touch marks on the left and right diagonal flats and the top flat, they are no longer discernible. The barrel is retained with a hammered brass capucine at the front and single screw in the slightly dovetailed tang. The capucine shows hammered geometric decorations and served as front ramrod retainer as well. The lock has a pronounced teat at its rear with a bridled frizzen and graceful swan neck cock; the top jaw and screw are no longer present. The lockplate and hammer show some nice simple chiseled-in-relief flowing scroll, also ahead of the lock. The brass triggerguard is somewhat fancy, cast with a floral motif on its front extension and light engraving on the bow. The buttcap shows the same cast-in-relief scroll with dual straps, the right strap missing a small piece at its top section. The sideplate was somewhat fancy, serpentine with loose scroll, only portions of it remain on the left stock flat. The stock itself rates about very good with a couple older drying cracks showing slightly worn carved-in relief decoration atop the wrist and in the area of the forestock. There was a fancy brass inlay atop the wrist which is no longer present, it has been replaced with a rudimentary piece of sheet brass. The lock seems to function mechanically with a robust hammer spring, there is no ramrod present. An interesting example overall which showed some nice workmanship and would've been quite fancy "back in the day". (36436-1) {ANTIQUE} (400/600)

1293. VERMONT PERCUSSION UNDERHAMMER RIFLE BY NICANOR KENDALL Now .52 cal. smoothbore, 23 3/4" octagon barrel with a very good bore. The iron surfaces are overall a dull gunmetal gray with some minor speckles of oxidation and scattered light pinprick pitting. The rifle is sighted with a thin silver blade front sight, the rear sight seat is vacant and the top flat is marked "N Kendall/Windsor Vermont/Patent", while the tang is marked "Smiths/Improved/Patent/Stud/Lock". There is a thin copper spacer between the tang and the barrel now, no doubt during one of the many removals over the years it "went by" and this is an effort to retighten it. The brass triggerplate and triggerguard are a dull goldenrod patina showing some minor dings and handling marks from the years. The underhammer lock seems to function well with the nipple being a quality modern replacement. The gun has been neatly restocked in curly maple and is fitted with its original patchbox, faceted buttplate and simple toe plate. The stock has dried slightly and there is a slight gap at the crescent butt, the toe plate never had its rear screw installed and is slightly loose along its rear edge, easily remedied. The stock itself rates very good and is showing a drying crack at its front right edge where the screw attaches it to the frame. The original stock is included, it rates fair and appears to be constructed of butternut. A later ramrod is present. Overall a nice example of a Vermont "border country" New England percussion halfstock underhammer. Nicanor Kendall, Coleman Hubbard and Mr. Smith were business associates 1835-about 1842. (36418-27) {ANTIQUE} (450/650)

1294. NEW ENGLAND PERCUSSION UNDERHAMMER SPORTING RIFLE BY LELAND & CO. About .45 cal., 28" octagon barrel with an oxidized

bore. The rifle is sighted with a simple brass blade front, the rear sight seat is vacant and the top flat is engraved in script "Leland & Co.". The barrel is an overall plum brown patina with scattered light oxidation staining and the widely scattered pinprick pit here and there. The breech and tang are deep blue-gray, the breech plug flats showing some tool marks. There is some very light borderline engraving on the top flat of the breech, continuing onto the tang, the tang showing a crack through its screw. The underhammer and triggerguard are primarily a deep brown patina with the triggerguard bow showing some light engraving, much of it obscured due to the light pitting in the flash area of the nipple. The plain walnut buttstock rates very good plus to near excellent with only minor dings and dents from the years, the iron crescent buttplate is primarily a plum with some light engraving on its tang. The left side of the butt has a decoratively engraved lozenge-shaped German silver inlay. The Lelands of Sherburn, Massachusetts were a prolific gun making family, Larkin Leland moved to Augusta, Maine around 1836 or so and entered into a gun making business with Sam Brooks, calling themselves Leland & Brooks. His earlier guns are engraved in script "Larkin Leland Augusta", it is known his brother Henry came to work with him in Augusta as well. It is noted in Maine Made Guns and Their Makers © Demeritt, that most of Larkin Leland's rifles are rather plain in design, as-is this arm. While one thinks of the great Connecticut River Valley from Windsor South into Massachusetts as the traditional New England seat of underhammer rifles and pistols, there are some that have been known in Maine and certainly Larkin would've taken that knowledge with him when he moved up to Augusta. His brother Henry died in 1846 and our supposition would be this "Leland & Co." marking was likely used prior to that period when he was working with both Mr. Brooks and his brother Henry. What appears to be the original hickory ramrod is present and the mechanism functions properly. A quality, if Spartan, example overall. (36418-28) {ANTIQUE} (450/650)

1295. COLT COLLECTORS LOT This lot consists of two Colt 1996 catalogs; one "Firearms", one "Colt Wear and other Collectibles" along with the corresponding retail and dealer price lists and a "valued dealer" letter from Colt. A full-color Colt Custom Gun Shop catalog is included along with price list and ordering instructions. Also is a point-of-sale promotional placard announcing "Free Cleaning Kit". This stand-up placard also comes with 5 claim forms to receive your Colt cleaning kit after the purchase of any Colt O-frame pistol, along with the dealer letter about the program. The next item is really cool...it is a Christmas card from Colt to their warranty service center, personally signed by the four Colt Customer Service reps at the time; postmarked Dec. 18, 1990. Also included are two sew-on Colt patches; one oval with the Colt logo, white blue and gold, the other circular with Rampant Colt surrounded by "Colt's Firearms Hartford Conn." in identical colors. The next item is a Colt button, also from the shot show, in 198?. Button has the Colt logo in white lettering against a blue field on the upper half while the lower half reads in red and blue lettering "Made Only in the USA" against a white background. There is a blue and red ribbon suspended below this. Lastly is a nice metal Rampant Colt tie-tack, pewter in-color in a plastic storage box. Overall a nice little lot for the Colt collector with some unique items for the enthusiast. (36512-5F)

1296. FINE ARABIAN WAHABITE JAMBIYA This is a rather nice Jambiya with 19" dual-edged blade with dual fullers running its full length on obverse and reverse. The blade itself is primarily a pewter gray patina showing some sparse smatterings of light oxidation staining or light pitting, showing evidence of hand-sharpening. The central medial on obverse and reverse shows some very light incise decoration. The Mediterranean hardwood handle is covered with sheet silver on its obverse, decorated with rondells and geometric incise engraving, its backside affixed with simple iron rivets. The included sheath shows a copper and hammered silver covering over a simple tin body. The hammered silver shows similar nice geometric decoration as the grip of the hilt. There are the remnants of a red Moroccan leather hanger strap included. The scabbard is tipped with a fired cartridge case; likely 8mm Mauser. Really a lovely Jambiya overall, brought back to this country by the same fellow two-whom the contemporary percussion Enfield rifle in the live auction was presented by HRH Khalid bin Sultan bin Abdulaziz. 1297. CEREMONIAL INDIAN AXE This is a rather nice short square-head axe of the kind quite often seen from Tanjore (Thanjavur) in Tamil Nadu, India. The head is an overall dull gunmetal gray with some light gold Damascening around its edges. The poll of the head is surmounted by a monkey, chiseled-in-relief, also with minor gold embellishment. The haft appears to be ebony and has five Maltese cross-shaped ivory or bone inlays along each face with six small circular inlays along each edge. The blade itself measures 3 1/4" long and is 7/8" wide, about 4 1/2" overall width from blade face to monkey's tail. The overall length from the top of the axe head to the base of the haft is 20 1/2". The base of the monkey shows an old museum inventory number in white paint. An interesting example, rather neatly embellished. (36020-K)

1298. CEREMONIAL INDIAN AXE This is a slightly longer square-head axe of the style similarly found in Tanjore (Thanjavur) in Tamil Nadu, India. The head is a tarnished pewter gunmetal gray with some very sparse oxidation staining here and there. The head has a square medial running around its entire periphery with a minor semicircular bolster showing some light geometric engraving at its base. The head features a long tang which extends into the haft about 11", through-which five rivets with floral rosette heads retain it. The haft itself is a Mediterranean hardwood and has a steel ferrule at each end. The blade is 5" long and about 1 1/8" wide with a maximum width from blade face to rear of poll of 3 1/2". The overall length from the turned medial cap to the base of the haft is 34 1/2". There is a museum inventory number in white paint on the butt ferrule. A rather nice, slightly more robust example, possibly even a "user". (36020-K)

1299. WHISKY TASTING SET While not strictly gun-related, it has recently come to our attention that occasionally some (likely very few) "gun-guys" enjoy a dram now and again. This set includes two flared tulip-style stemmed glasses with glass lids, for tasting. Two decanters, either both for spring water or one for whisky, one for water; you choose. The glasses are each etched with the Glenmorangie name while the large decanter is etched with the Glenlivet name and trademark, the sloping-mouth pitcher features the Glenfiddich stag nicely etched on its front. We are told these are the trade names of distilled spirits from a place called "Scotland" where the people sometimes drink these spirits. A nice little set for the connoisseur of the Whisky with no "e". [editors cautionary note: under no circumstances should these items be used with blended whiskies as they will immediately self-destruct] (36512-1)

1300. LOT OF S.O.F. MAGAZINES Soldier of Fortune magazine, "The Journal of Professional Adventurers" Consisting of 19 issues: Dec. 79; Dec. 80; Jan., Feb., April, June-Sept., Nov., Dec. 81; Jan.-Oct. 82 (missing April). All very good or better; numerous with the "Support Afghan Freedom Fighters" advertisements from when the Russians were there. Bob Brown's "buy a bullet zap a Russian invader" campaign prominently advertised as well (my how the times have changed). Two issues of "Eagle" magazine are included; one "Commando" (the premier issue!); one "Special Weapons". Also a dozen or so assorted copies of "Guns and Ammo" and "Shooting" and various hunting magazines from the 80's. Two copies of "Newsweek" from June and July 1954 as well. (36512-2)

1301. COLLECTIBLE WINCHESTER LOT This lot consists of Winchester Ammunition Advisory Center memorabilia and advertising. First item is a "Winchester Product Reference Guide", a three-ring binder in red vinyl with 1988-dated letter inside. The binder has 1988 dealer programs, advertising planner; Winchester Supreme suggested price list; New Products announcements; Winchester clip-art for ads (my how times change); Ballistics Guide and 1988 catalog. All rate excellent. Next are three "cartridge wheels", two are "Winchester Shotgun Game Guides", one is a "Winchester CXP Cartridge Selector". Turn the dial to your selected game and shotshell recommendations are seen. Turn the dial to your caliber of choice and available grain weights, trajectories and suggested uses for specific game are shown (today I'm sure there an "app" for that).

Four vinyl pocket protectors with the Winchester Ammunition Advisory Center logo are next. They feature the logo and "Need Help? Just Ask" along the front; also excellent condition. There is a plastic-framed Winchester Ammunition Advisory Center "Charter Member" certificate included, dated 1989 to "Northwest Sports Inc." and a copy of an application (to become a W.A.A.C. dealer) dated February of '89 from the same establishment. There are three factory-folded wall posters advertising Winchester BRI sabot slugs and two factory-folded wall posters advertising "What America Shoots" ... why its Winchester Supreme ammunition of course; rifle, pistol, rimfire and shotshell are shown. A really neat collection of dealer-only Winchester items overall, very rarely encountered on the collectors market. (36512-5,6)

1302. COLLECTIBLE WEATHERBY LOT This lot consists of two Weatherby dealers' packets from the 80s. First is a green vinyl three-ring binder with "Weatherby" in white script on the front. Inside are Weatherby dealer programs from 1989, custom rifle ordering information along with images of the different options for inlays, checkering etc. and complete details for ordering same; 1989 retail and wholesale price lists, co-op advertising information, Weatherby order forms, lists of Weatherby Authorized Service Centers, Stocking Dealer program information, information on Weatherby accessories and a large "22nd Edition Weatherby Guide" with a Weatherby 1989 catalog in the front pocket. The second item is a tan-tone smaller three-ring binder with "Weatherby" on the front in brown script with "Firearms Parts and Price List" along the bottom of the binder. Inside is an application for open account, numerous order forms, 1987 pricelist, '88 and '89-dated letters from the company showing dealer programs and new products along with '87, '88 and '89 dealer program newsletters. Included are parts breakdown schematics for all the then-current models along with pricing. Also included is another copy of the "Weatherby Guide", 22nd edition. Overall the items are very good to excellent, the Parts and Pricelist binder shows remnants of a barcode sticker on its cover. Also included are two sew-on patches. The first is "Weatherby/Symbol of Superiority" embroidered in red thread flanking a Weatherby Mark V rifle against a goldenrod background with brown border stitching, the second "Weatherby/Symbol of Superiority Shotguns" embroidered in blue thread showing an over under Athena shotgun and flying pheasant, against a goldenrod background with red border stitching. Both patches rate excellent. Last is a royal blue vented "ball cap", the style ordered by Weatherby Stocking Dealers, on-which Weatherby would imprint the dealers name. This example has the flying pheasant design with "Weatherby" embroidered in gold thread and "Northwest Sports/Hooksett NH" in block print. The hat appears new, unused but the foam backing on the interior has degraded and flaked away with age. A neat, seldom-seen lot of dealer-only materials for the Weatherby aficionado. (36512-5A)

1303. COLLECTIBLE DAKOTA ARMS LOT This lot consists of a Dakota Arms Inc. tin sign from 1996. The sign shows two large Mulley's in a winter woodland scene with field in the background. Laying across the scene is an image of the then-new Dakota Model 10 single shot rifle. The lower left of the view has the Dakota Arms emblem and trademark in brilliant white purple and red. The sign rates excellent and is in its original cardboard shipping "sleeve" from the company and comes with an explanatory letter from sales manager Paulette Kok, a color broadside introducing the "Dakota American Legend" shotgun and a Dakota Arms Inc. newsletter with pricelist and order form for the Dakota American Legend shotgun and a pricelist of Dakota rifles and "fine firearms available from Don Allen's personal collection". All these items come in their original UPS shipping envelope. The sign rates about excellent but shows one tiny wrinkle along its top edge, the covering on the adhesive backing on the four adhesive pads on the back of the sign is still in place and the sign is numbered "No. 130 of 1050" along with "First Issue 01/01/96". A neat "dealer only" lot for the Dakota collector. (36512-5B)

1304. COLLECTIBLE REMINGTON LOT This lot consists of a 1989 "Remington One-Cover Reference Book" which is a large three-ring binder for dealers in, of course, Remington Green. The cover shows a facsimile of the Remington Arms Company catalog cover for 1989 with 11-87 premier and duck decoys. Inside are a copy of the Remington firearms ammunition catalog and 1989 copy of the clothing and accessories catalog, they have been read and are slightly wrinkled but are very good. Additionally there are the retail price lists for arms and ammunition, information about the Remington co-op advertising program along with claim forms and suggestions, many pages of clipart for advertising, amusingly showing the first-model cantilever scope mount which worked so poorly; Remington new product announcements in full color, the Remington directory, wholesaler list, and gunsmith list. There is also a 1978 catalog included which rates good to very good and a 1991 Remington 175th anniversary catalog which rates about excellent. Also included is a large promotional packet from 1990 telling of the "buy one get one" Remington limited edition knife program. The packet includes a point-of sale placard showing the Remington shotgun product line and a depiction of the Remington stag-handle clip point knife which you would receive free if you purchased a shotgun. There are three pads of claim forms the purchaser would fill out to obtain their free knife. They are un-used and have never been affixed to the point-of-sale placard. There is a wall poster promoting the giveaway as well, also showing all of the shotguns, and there are about 25 hangtags showing the knife and the details of the promotion, that would be suspended from the triggerguards of the shotguns on the racks. Additional clipart is included for the dealers to use in a promotional capacity. The promotional materials all rate excellent with the exception of the point-of-sale display which was folded in half at one point however it is still intact and rates very good. Also included is a Remington #75 Racing poster with "Welcome to Remington Country" along the bottom and an image of Rick Mast's #75 car super-imposed into a cartridge configuration (going very fast). The poster shows some wrinkling and a few creases with a very minor spot of water damage, but overall is seldom seen nowadays. A very interesting lot of dealer-only Remington items, very seldom encountered and a neat edition for any Remington collector. (36512-5C)

The barrel is an overall plum brown with oxidation beneath, wearing to pewter on its high edges. It is sighted with a globe style front with simple lollipop insert and a simple lollipop tang sight in place, the barrel top flats showing evidence of once having had a long tang style open sight in place; the top flat is maker marked "N. Kendall/Windsor Vt". The back action lock is primarily a deep gray-blue patina while the hammer is an oxidized brown. There is a German silver nose-cap, ramrod ferrule and the triggerguard is simple iron with a single rearward grip flourish. The faceted buttplate and simple toe plate are iron as well, as-is the right-side patchbox, all showing a light plum brown. The rifle features a dual-acting lock and double set triggers, the rear set does not always catch. The light-colored stock is possibly butternut or a simple maple, it has an overall later dark added-varnish and rates about very good, there are old repaired cracks from the front of the triggerguard rearward towards the lock; they are unobtrusive and difficult to detect at first glance. The next items are two Smith & Wesson buttons from the mid-1980s-era SHOT show. They show an image of a bull with a "banned" sign through it, this from the Smith & Wesson "no bull" promotion when they were heavily advertising back and forth against Taurus firearms. The button is white, the bull in black and the "no" symbol in red, with "Smith & Wesson" along the bottom. The next item is a small cloissonné "Ruger Firearms" tie tack or lapel button in gold and black with the red Ruger Phoenix trademark at center. The mum is intact and the receiver markings are crisp. The hardwood stocks rate very good and have several light dings and other handling marks consistent with service use. The buttstock has evidence of drying with a growing space between the buttstock sections and a small crack running from forend cap retention spring toward the barrel band. The right side of the buttstock has a name lightly inscribed near the toe, possibly from the GI who claimed it from the battlefield and brought it home. The sights are intact and the cleaning rod is included. The numbers appear to be all matching and carbine is in near excellent condition and has excellent markings. (46453-18) {C&R} (400/600)
1312. SMITH & WESSON 38 MILITARY & POLICE MODEL OF 1905 REVOLVER serial #672314, 38 Special, 6" pinned barrel with an excellent bore. This fourth change revolver retains about 99% of its original factory blue finish on all the parts except the barrel. The barrel is not correctly numbered to this revolver and has been improperly re-blued leaving it a plum color. There is a light turn ring present on the cylinder with a few light, scattered surface scratches on the metal parts. The hammer and trigger retain their rich case-hardened colors with some very light freckling and pin prick pitting present. The diamond centered, checkered walnut grips are not correctly numbered to the gun but remain in near excellent condition overall. Matching serial numbers are found on all the appropriate remaining parts and the revolver times and locks up as well as it did the day it left Springfield. This revolver should make an excellent shooter for the Smith & Wesson enthusiast. (86453-6) {C&R} (400/600)

1314. WHITNEY 2ND MODEL NAVY, 6TH TYPE PERCUSSION REVOLVER #29676, 36 cal., 7 5/8" octagon barrel with a very good, lightly oxidized bore. Naval anchor marking on the top of the revolver's barrel is still visible, with another possibly also along its cylinder, however the area is too degraded to definitively determine. The metal surfaces are a mottled gray brown that has a speckled appearance. There are areas of light pitting and surface oxidation, and screws have minor slot damage. The smooth walnut grips rate very good for their age, with light handling marks and small repairs. The front sight dovetail slot has been filled-in and a bead sight added toward the muzzle. The revolver comes with a custom lined wooden display case with key. Needs mechanical attention as the hammer will not remain cocked and cylinder does not remain locked in place. (146257-11) {ANTIQUE} (350/550)
1315. CH BALLARD SINGLE SHOT DERINGER serial #3482, .41 cal. RF, 2 3/4" part octagon part round barrel with a fair bore. The brass frame has tarnished to a pleasing dull ocher patina showing some minor impact marks and dings at the butt with a few on the right side of the frame. The smooth rosewood grips rate about very good, now primarily devoid of varnish, they are un-numbered; the left side grip screw is brass, the right side steel. Barrel-to-frame lockup is slightly loose but the gun seems to function well mechanically. A good to very good example overall of these nice Worcester-made Deringers. (36105-5) {ANTIQUE} (400/600)

1316. UNMARKED SINGLE BARREL BRITISH PERCUSSION FOWLER About 16 bore, 43 1/2" part octagon part round barrel with a turned medial at the point of transition. The barrel is primarily an overall brown patina with some light oxidation, its top flat is marked "London" and there are British proofs on the left diagonal flat, the front sight is a brass bead set in a silver inlaid "turtle". The lock is "G. Goulcher" marked and shows light engraving as well as oxidation and light pitting as does the hammer. There is moderate oxidation in the area of the nipple barrel and the short tang shows some light engraving. There are iron ramrod thimbles with a bone nosecap and brass tailpipe, the brass triggerguard featured a pineapple front extension which is no longer present, there is light engraving on the guard's bow. There is a brass buttplate which shows some light tang engraving and a brass shield-shaped monogram plate atop the wrist. The stock rates good to near very good with overall minor dings and handling marks, showing an old light refinish, cracks and a small chip missing from the toe. What is likely the original ramrod is present and the lock seems to function well. It's quite likely that this is an older conversion from flint as there are two lockplate screws and a simple drum and nipple conversion with the later Goulcher-marked lock. 59" overall length. A nice long-barreled smallbore fowler for over the mantle. (35134-2) {ANTIQUE} (350/550)

The European Walnut buttstock rates about very good with minor handling marks and dings from the years, coarse checkering and a 12" crack along the left side of the forearm area. The lock is mechanically functional however the hammer is very loose on the lock as the hammer screw is an improper replacement. An excellent hanger for above the fireplace. (35134-3) {ANTIQUE} (300/500)
1318. REMINGTON MODEL 4-S MILITARY MODEL ROLLING BLOCK RIFLE 22 Short or Long, 28 1/4" barrel with an excellent, bright bore. The metal surfaces retain approximately 97% of quality restored blue finish, that has a few light handling marks and specks of light surface oxidation and a few small pits present. The buttstock is numbered "4607" and the forearm is missing the forward swivel. It is being held in place by a later commercial replacement. The rifle is equipped with the original iron sights but is missing the bayonet lug screw. An about very good example overall of these seemingly rare cadet rifles. (136288-66) {C&R} (400/600)

The buttstock has a few small cracks where the wood meets the receiver and another emanating through a knot near the hole to allow for partial filling of the tube magazine. The mount holds a Lyman Alaskan 2 1/2X series riflescope which features a post and crosshair reticle and has excellent optics. The receiver is marked "S/147" and dated "1937", the parts appear to be all matching but the mounting screws are missing the smaller set screws. The bolt handle has been modified for use with the scope. A fading US GI style leather sling is installed. A very good example overall that with some effort could be made into a really nice sporting Mauser. (6488-1) (350/550)
1323. ITHACA SKB MODEL 500 OVER UNDER SHOTGUN serial #CF 561105, 20 ga., 26" ventilated rib barrels with bright excellent bores choked modified over full and equipped with an orange Hi-Vis front bead. The barrel has a rich brown patina while the remaining metal surfaces are a mottled gray and all have areas of light to moderate pitting. The walnut stocks rate very good and have minor dings and a few small cracks and chips; both have added finish. Though shorter than issued length, the barrel has original carbine sights, and where the rear sight sits, shows evidence of a longer rifle sight having been previously mounted. Behind the rear sight is a "(crown)/IV" stamp and the barrel band has a similar crown stamping. Though these markings appear to be Danish in origin the frame, block and hammer are decidedly Spanish, the Remington markings along the upper tang are crisp. The buttplate is a poor fit and the screws have small crown-shaped markings as well. The barrel band and stock both have sling swivels present, the saddle ring bar and ring on the left side of the frame have been removed and the holes are vacant. 2696. LARGE TWO-BARREL SLUG GUN BY LLOYD RESOR .52 cal. & .45 cal., 27" dodecahedron barrels with bright fine bores. The barrels bear overall plum brown patinas with very light silvering along the high edges and scattered light scuffs and blemishes. The tru-muzzles are in-the-white and the frame and triggerguard retains a dull gun metal gray finish. The plain left-handed pistolgrip Monte Carlo style walnut stained fiddleback maple stock with raised cheekpiece rates fine with a handful of light dings and dents. The stock is equipped with a bright aluminum grip-cap and a White-Line dried crazed grooved rubber shotgun style buttplate. The rifle includes a turned cylindrical brass benchrest and a in-the-white steel false muzzle. The nipple bolster is missing from the .52 caliber barrel and the smaller .45 caliber barrel is unvented. Both barrels are equipped with target blocks and weigh 36 lbs. respectively. Lloyd Resor had the reputation of being the premier slug gun maker in the 50's until he quit making them around 1975. A rather neat and interesting under hammer percussion benchrest slug gun. Please note: Due to size and weight of barrels extra shipping will apply. (56020-330) (800/1200)

2697. FIE CBC MODEL SB SINGLE SHOT SHOTGUN serial #1358374, 410 bore, 26" full choke barrel with a bright excellent bore. The metal surfaces retain 60-70% original blue with areas of moderate to heavy oxidation, and some light spotty oxidation. The hardwood pistolgrip stock and forearm rate good with a flaking finish on the buttstock and several mild handling blemishes on the forearm. (126357-S17230) (20/40)
2698. LOT OF KNIVES Three total first is a Kukri style knife in a wood and leather wrapped scabbard. The 11" full tang blade has been ground and the wooden shaped handles are pinned with three brass rivets. The blade shows remnants of what might be FCF markings but they are partial and hard to read. Second is a Brazilian manufactured Bolo with sheath. The blade shows grind marks and light oxidation staining but remains in very good condition, included is a vinyl sheath in good overall condition. Third is an unmarked full tang short sword measuring 21 1/2" overall with a 16 1/4" double blade. The sword is in very good condition and comes with a wood and leather sheath that is missing half of the leather and the throat. (105458-5B)

2699. U.S. MODEL 1860 CAVALRY SABER BY MANSFIELD & LAMB 34 1/2" blade is marked on the obverse ricasso "U.S./ C.E.W./1864" and on the reverse ricasso "Mansfield/ & Lamb/ Forrestdale, R.I." in an oval. The blade has only a few small nicks and is very clean with much of the original polish remaining. The leather wrapped grip shows light crazing but is missing only a small piece at the pommel and the wire binding is intact and tight. The brass pommel is also inspector marked "C.E.W." and the three branch guard has a nice dark goldenrod patina with a slight bend to the outer branch. The original steel scabbard has a nice brown patina with several small spots of light oxidation staining and the drag is inspector marked "C.E.W." as well. A very nice example of a Civil War Union Cavalry Saber by one of the scarcer manufacturers. (56211-1) (400/600)
