2000. EXTREMELY RARE U.S. MODEL 1903 WARNER OBJECTIVE M1 REAR SIGHT This is an experimental rear sight patented by Robert Warner and A O Niedner in January 1914. It was designed as a combination target-battle sight and featured a five-position open rear sight with a flip-up standing leaf adjustable target rear sight. The five-position rear sight features square apertures with a right-side knob with five positive detent stops, calibrated for 200, 300, 400, 500 and 600 yards. The standing leaf target rear is calibrated from 200 to 2000 yards in 100 yard increments, with quarterly increments starting right at 1100 yards. The sight remains in very fine condition with nearly all its original blue showing only some very light scattered specks of oxidation, some very light blue wear on the slide and a bit of hardened oil. As-expected from these two gentlemen, the quality of the work and machining is top-notch. Mr. Warner's own promotional literature regarding the sight stated that after a satisfactory sample was submitted, the government ordered 400 for testing. While there is no real way to substantiate this, the extreme rarity of these sights would suggest that it is highly likely far fewer than that were ordered or produced. According to Brophy, the sight was indeed tested by Ordnance but without a recommendation of adoption. Really an extremely well-made and well-preserved example of these very obscure 1903 rear sights. (37493-61)

2001. OSCAR WILL BUGELSPANNER TRIGGER-COCKING AIR RIFLE serial #116, .25 cal., 20 3/8" octagon barrel with a bright very good plus smoothbore showing a couple scattered spots of very light oxidation. The barrel retains about 40% fading original blue beneath a coating of very fine surface oxidation and showing wear on the sharp edges with a few minor handling marks here and there. The body, lever and their attendant parts retain about 95% nice original nickel finish, which was an upgrade over blued finish of the day. The finish remains strong overall and primarily unchipped with some widely scattered spots of oxidation and some minor scratches and handling marks, primarily on the body. The checkered walnut pistolgrip stock rates very good with some minor handling marks here and there; the forend shows a bit more wear and has a sliver along its left top edge re-affixed with a small screw and another small crack at its left rear. A number of the screw slots showed some minor head damage and the barrel retaining screw is likely a later replacement. The barrel is actually numbered to a different gun and exhibits light vertical play. There is spring tension on the lever however we hesitate to cock it therefore cannot guarantee the function of the air rifle. The top of the barrel is marked "original" and the top of the buttstock frame is neatly engraved "Importe D'Allamagne". A very attractive example piece overall. (37493-31) (non-gun) (200/400)

2002. ENFIELD MARK III MARTINI-HENRY SOCIETY OF MINIATURE RIFLE CLUBS CG BONEHILL-CONVERTED RIFLE serial #19276, 22 RF (marked on the right side of the barrel) "2 2L", 30 1/4" round barrel with a very good to very good plus bore. The metal surfaces are an overall dark gray-blue patina with scattered light oxidation, the bands actually showing some very strong bright original blue in spots. There are some light scratches on the frame and numerous tiny dings atop its rear behind the block. The right side of the frame features the original royal crown and "VR/Enfield" markings with an 1885 date, the left side has been neatly engraved by Bonehill "SMRC Special/Converted for the Society of Miniature Rifle Clubs/by C G Bonehill Birmingham". The checkered straight grip English walnut buttstock rates about very good showing overall dings and dents from the years along with some flaking varnish, the top of the wrist with a three vacant holes where a tang or aperture sight was mounted. The three-quarter-length forend is in a similar state of condition showing perhaps a bit more wear and with its original cleaning rod channel filled. The rear sight leaf is slightly damaged and will not lay flat, one of the rear sight base screws is missing. A rather nice example overall which likely would spin a bullet rather well. (37118-4) {ANTIQUE} (450/650)

2003. BELGIAN DOUBLE HAMMERGUN BY RICKARD WITH WELLS FARGO MARKING serial #22539, 12 ga., 20 1/8" nicely shortened barrels with very good bores which show scattered light pitting and the minor ding here or there. The metal surfaces are an overall dull gray and brown patina. This example one of the lower-tier Belgian guns of the day, the barrels still retain original tool and draw file marks their full lengths. Each back action lock is marked "Rickard" and wisely, the firing pins and their bushings have been removed from the frame. The checkered round knob pistolgrip buttstock and splinter style forend are of European hardwood and rate near very good, the buttstock having been sanded and cleaned, it's fit slightly loose. The right side of the stock has been deeply stamped "Wells Fargo & Co" and a fairly contemporary shield-shaped property tag has been affixed "Property of Wells Fargo & Co Express San Francisco Div" with a "7" stamped in the wood beneath this; the steel buttplate is fairly proud all around its periphery. The locks seem to function mechanically however there is quite a bit of lateral play in the barrel-to-frame fit. A neat display piece with contemporary markings for the Western enthusiast (37165-21) {C&R} (300/500)

2004. UNMARKED MEDITERRANEAN AREA PERCUSSION MUSKET About .69 cal. percussion, 22 1/2" part octagon part round barrel with turned medial at the point of transition and a flared muzzle, done after the period of initial production, showing a small split at about 9 o'clock. The iron surfaces are a dull pewter gray patina with an overall coating of light brown oxidation, showing some light pinprick pitting as well. This example appears to utilize either an old Belgian lock or a Mediterranean-copied lock resembling a Belgian martial musket lock. The European or Mediterranean hardwood stock rates very good showing an old refinish which has left some of the metal slightly proud. The arm was likely shortened to this "blunderbuss" or "cavalry carbine" type of configuration, the sideplate fitted with a long belt hook. The lock seems to function mechanically however there is no ramrod present. (37127-6) {ANTIQUE} (200/300)

2005. CONTEMPORARY FLINTLOCK HOLSTER PISTOL

About .72 cal., 10 1/4" round barrel with a very good bore. The metal surfaces are an overall bright gunmetal silvery-gray with some remnants of light pinprick pitting here and there. The pistol looks as though it is perhaps early 20th century, perhaps made for the tourist market, or older and professionally cleaned with a machine buffing. The quality of the cleaning is quite good or it is original polish from the previous century. The brass as well is now gaining a goldenrod patina, having been nicely polished at some point. The European walnut stock rates very good plus with minor dings and handling marks, very good varnish and a tiny crack at the noscap. There is a simple brass blade front sight affixed, scant island carving around the tang and an oval brass monogram plate atop the wrist; there is a solid brass ramrod included as well. The lock seems to function well mechanically. An interesting and rather nice flintlock pistol that seems to be rather Mediterranean-like when one looks at the component parts of the lock, mimicking European pistols of an earlier period. (37513-14) {ANTIQUE} (400/600)

2006. UNMARKED BELGIAN PERCUSSION DOUBLE SHOTGUN About 11 Ga., 26" barrels with lightly oxidized bores. The barrels show remnants of pinprick pitting along with some cleaned areas, retaining perhaps 50% later blue with the balance toned to a warm brown. The back action locks and hammers as well as the upper tang are in a similar state of condition. The triggerguard and noscap are unadorned nickel silver. The European walnut buttstock rates very good as refinished in a somewhat orange-russet hue. There is a 3" x 1/2" repair on the left side of the forend and a couple of cracks to the rear of the noscap. The ramrod is not present but the back action locks seem to function properly. (37067-6) {ANTIQUE} (50/150)

2007. CHIAPPA LITTLE BADGER SINGLE SHOT RIFLE serial #14H07988, 17 H.M.R., 16 1/2" barrel with an excellent bore. This handy little rifle retains about 99% original blue and black finishes with a few minor handling marks. The buttstock is skeletonized metal with synthetic buttplate that rate excellent. The forend is comprised of four Picatinny style rails measuring 4" long and also rate excellent. This handy trail gun features fully adjustable rear sight, post front sight with protective ears, cartridge carriers for a dozen rounds mounted on the buttstock and an additional 1 3/8" section of rail mounted behind the triggerguard. The rifle folds nearly in half for easy transport and includes a nylon carry pouch with printed Chiappa logo featuring the head of a Badger. (87615-2) {MODERN} (100/200)

2008. BELGIAN DOUBLE ACTION PIN FIRE REVOLVER

serial #12, .32 pinfire, 3 1/4" octagon cast steel barrel with a bright very good plus to near excellent bore showing a couple spots of pitting. The metal surfaces are overall dull gunmetal gray and mostly smooth with some areas of light pinprick pitting on the barrel. There is light loose scroll on the barrel and its extension with some nice loose open scroll and borderline engraving on the cylinder, this continues onto the frame flats. The smooth rosewood grips rate very good plus to near excellent showing the backstrap just slightly proud. The gun features a manual ejector rod and operates both single and double action and features a folding trigger. A neat little pin fire revolver over all. (7586-92) {ANTIQUE} (350/550)

2008

2009. BELGIAN DOUBLE ACTION PIN FIRE REVOLVER

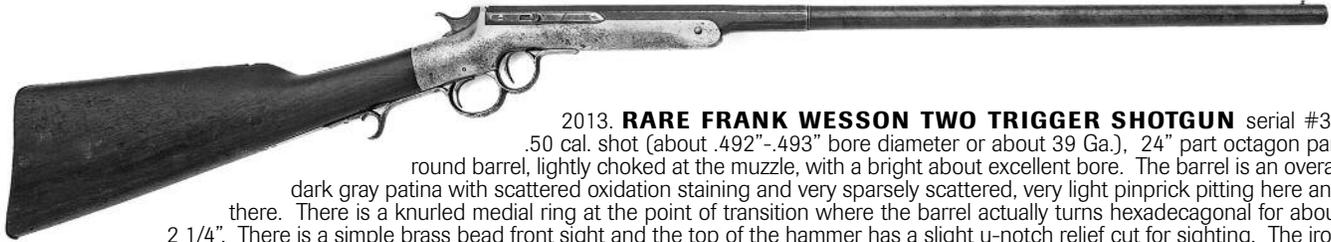

.42 pinfire, 5 7/8" octagon barrel with an about very good bore. The metal surfaces are overall silvery gunmetal gray patina with some sparsely scattered spots of oxidation staining, also with some scattered very light pinprick pitting. The barrel shows some light geometric engraving with loose scroll on its extension. The cylinder and frame show open foliate engraving with near full coverage on the cylinder and frame flats. The smooth ebony grips rate very good plus with some minor dings and handling marks, they fit the frame rather well. The gun seems to work well mechanically and is equipped with a lanyard loop and manual ejector rod (the rod is slightly bent but seems to work as-designed). A nice large frame pinfire revolver over all. (37586-91) {ANTIQUE} (350/550)

2010. STEVENS MODEL 425 HIGH POWER LEVER ACTION RIFLE serial #3003, 32 Remington, 22" round barrel with an about very good bore which shows strong rifling but with minor pitting its full length. The metal surfaces retain about 98-99% excellent quality restored blued finish. The straight grip walnut buttstock and forend rate very good as well, also as professionally refinished, showing a number of repaired cracks in the area of the butt at heel and toe, upper and lower tangs and right upper edge of the forearm. There is a Marbles No. 5 ivory bead front sight in place and stamped sheet metal rear. Really a good-looking 425 High Power that rates about excellent as-restored overall. (37552-63) {C&R} (300/500)

2011. UNMARKED PERCUSSION UNDERHAMMER SPORTING AND TARGET RIFLE About .50 cal., 30" part octagon part hexadecagonal barrel with an oxidized bore. The barrel is primarily a plum brown patina showing scattered oxidation and is sighted with a simple brass blade front and shallow v-notch rear. The American walnut buttstock rates about very good showing a large chip at the toe which has been re-affixed but is now loose once again. Barrel-to frame fit is rather loose and there is a brass buttplate, triggerguard and pendulum-style patchbox. The left side of the butt shows a simple turtle shaped inlay and another somewhat teardrop-shaped inlay, there are keyhole-shaped inlays at the barrel escutcheons on both sides of the head of the stock. The mechanism does function and there is a period ramrod included. (37340-65) {ANTIQUE} (150/300)

2012. UNMARKED BRITISH EXPORT FLINTLOCK MILITIA MUSKET-FOWLER .65 cal., 39" barrel with a lightly oxidized bore. The barrel is an overall plum brown patina showing light pinprick pitting its full length with British proofs on the left radius. The lockplate is a similar pewter gray patina with some minor oxidation, a few spots more moderate, also with some light pinprick pitting. There appear to be some modern screws affixed to the lock and the frizzen is a modern replacement. The brass hardware consists of Bess-style ramrod thimbles and tailpipe with a heavy cast brass triggerguard with front teat. There is a scant brass buttplate and simple brass sideplate which is lightly engraved. The hardwood stock shows a generous coating of old shellac which is crackling in a number of spots, giving a very pleasing aged appearance. This covers a number of minor repaired cracks, chips at the heel and a couple very minor epoxied dings or gouges. There is a period iron ramrod attached and the lock functions but there is no half cock rest. An attractive looking militia musket-fowler, likely from the early part of the 20th century or later half of the 19th. (37348-6) {ANTIQUE} (500/700)

2013. RARE FRANK WESSON TWO TRIGGER SHOTGUN serial #37, .50 cal. shot (about .492"-.493" bore diameter or about 39 Ga.), 24" part octagon part round barrel, lightly choked at the muzzle, with a bright about excellent bore. The barrel is an overall dark gray patina with scattered oxidation staining and very sparsely scattered, very light pinprick pitting here and there. There is a knurled medial ring at the point of transition where the barrel actually turns hexadecagonal for about 2 1/4". There is a simple brass bead front sight and the top of the hammer has a slight u-notch relief cut for sighting. The iron frame is a dull pewter gray patina with minor oxidation staining and scattered light pitting, the triggerguard is similar. The straight grip walnut buttstock rates about very good, now devoid of varnish, with overall minor dings and handling marks from the years, the original brass shotgun style butt is in place showing some generous trace silver plate, roughly about 30%. Barrel-to-frame fit is slightly loose but the mechanism seems to function well; the extractor button is missing from the right side of the extractor and a common screw has been fitted in its place. Sources list the caliber for these very scarce two trigger shotguns as ".55 Shot", actual micrometer dimensions of the bore are as listed above. A very rare Limited-production shotgun overall. (37039-1) {ANTIQUE} (500/700)

2014. HOME-MADE FLINTLOCK FULLSTOCK "JAEGER RIFLE" .56 cal., 29 3/4" octagon barrel with a bright about excellent bore. The barrel is an overall plum brown patina and features a simple German silver front blade sight, the rear sight is missing. The lock is a pewter patina, it is extremely rudimentarily made and finished, it shows some very amateurish engraving with scroll and a running horse. There is a large iron fingergrooved triggerguard and double set triggers, the lock being single acting; its half-cock rest does not function properly. The walnut stock rates very good and is overall carved in loose open scroll, again somewhat amateurishly. There is a right-side lion and left-side eagle atop the square-bottom cheekpiece rest, there appears to be another griffin or dragon to the rear of this. There is a sliding wooden patchbox which seems to function well and a heavy brass buttplate with a bone-tipped ramrod included. An interesting "Jaeger rifle" overall, likely made for the tourist trade somewhere. (37238-3) {ANTIQUE} (200/400)
2015. NEW YORK PERCUSSION HALFSTOCK SPORTING AND TARGET RIFLE BY WJ & RH SCOTT OF ALBANY About 38 caliber. 31" octagon barrel turned for starter with a heavily oxidized bore. The barrel is an overall moderately oxidized brown patina with overall light pitting, a few spots more moderate. There is a simple scant blade front sight and v-notch sporting rear with a long extended flat tang which would've held an aperture sight which is no longer present. The back action lockplate shows remnants of some very light scroll, it is an oxidized patina, the hammer and nipple are no longer present. The top flat is indeed maker marked, it is somewhat difficult to read due to the oxidation. There is a pewter nose cap and iron butt and toe plates along with a nice brass patchbox; there is no triggerguard present. The walnut stock rates very good plus; a very interesting feature of this arm is that it is made with a double ramrod thimbles and two holes in the nose cap to accommodate the same. (37194-24) {ANTIQUE} (100/200)
2016. VVA HAWKEN-STYLE PERCUSSION RIFLE serial #015344, .45 cal., 32" octagon barrel with heavily oxidized bore. The metal surfaces and overall plum brown with a light overall coating of oxidation, the lockplate showing some strong remnants of case colors. The stock rates very good with much original varnish and overall extremely light handling marks and dings with flaking finish. Rifle is equipped with a single-acting lock and double set triggers which currently do not function. The front sight is missing. (37165-39) {ANTIQUE} (50/100)
2017. TRAPDOOR CARBINE BY W.S. KIRK OF PHILADELPHIA serial #181732(star), 45-70 Govt, 22" barrel with a fair bore. The metal surfaces are primarily a dark gray and brown patina with an overall smattering of light surface oxidation. There is active oxidation in the area of the tang-hammer-breechblock and the firing pin is no doubt frozen in place within the block. The lockplate is marked with the retailer W. Stokes Kirk's stamping "W.S. Kirk/Phila". The stock rates good to very good with overall minor and moderate dings and handling marks from the years and a rack mark at the right side of the butt "148". The rear sight elevation leaf is not present but the sling ring and bar are intact on the left side of the arm. A very good Kirk-retailed surplus trapdoor carbine overall. (37140-9) {ANTIQUE} (250/450)
2018. SPRINGFIELD ARMORY MODEL 1873 TRAPDOOR SPORTER serial #102764, 45-70 Govt, 19" nicely shortened barrel with a bright near excellent bore. The metal surfaces retain about 90% original blue on the barrel bands and frame with the breechblock now an oxidized patina. Hammer and lockplate show some very good original blue as well, as does the triggerguard. The stock has been shortened to match the barrel and rates very good overall with a good left side cartouche and strong firing proof. There is a sporting ramp front sight affixed and the standard carbine rear is present and the gun seems to function well mechanically. There is a brass cleaning rod in place in the original cleaning rod channel; there are no swivels. (37292-70) {ANTIQUE} (250/450)
2019. TURKISH ENFIELD SNIDER CONVERTED FORAGER .577 Snider, 25 1/2" barrel with a very good smoothbore. All the metal surfaces are dull gray lightly cleaned patina showing remnants of British proofs on the left radius and with Turkish markings elsewhere. Stock rates about very good as sanded, retaining overall dings and light handling marks from the years. There has been a steel under rib fitted to the underside of the barrel and cleaning rod thimbles and sling swivels installed. There is a simple barleycorn front sight and shallow v-notch rear. The lock seems to function mechanically although the hammer shows some damage to its face. (37327-6) {ANTIQUE} (100/200)
2020. MAUSER G 24T BOLT ACTION SPORTER serial #5054J, 8mm Mauser, 21 1/2" stepped military barrel with a very good bore. The metal surfaces retain about 95% buffed hot immersion blue finish with some scattered light oxidation staining and light wear. The smooth walnut Monte Carlo pistolgrip stock is likely a Fajen or Bishop offering from "back in the day" and rates about very good. The length of pull to the collapsed Jostam anti-flinch recoil pad is 13 1/2". The receiver has been drilled and tapped for a one-piece Redfield base with flip-up rear aperture and low steel 1" rings. The bolt handle has been forged low for scope clearance and there is a Buehler low scope safety installed. (37285-29) {MODERN} (200/400)

2021. KRAG MODEL 1898 BOLT ACTION SPORTER serial #276946, 30-40 Krag, 22" professionally shortened barrel with a very good bore. The metal surfaces retain about 95% good-quality hot immersion blue, the loading gate and bolt knob a pewter gray patina. The rifle is stocked Monte Carlo style in Birdseye Maple with a rounded left-side cheekpiece, the stock likely from HerTERS. Pachmayr flush-mount quick-detachable sling swivels have been installed and the length of pull to the plastic buttplate is 13 3/4" with a plastic grip-cap with white line spacer and plastic forend tip also with white line spacer. The stock itself rates very good with overall minor dings and handling marks from use afield. The rifle is sighted with a Williams streamlined ramp which supports a gold bead front and a Redfield rear receiver sight. (37322-1) {MODERN} (300/500)
2022. MAUSER MODEL 98 BOLT ACTION SPORTER serial #8334h, 8mm Mauser, 24" barrel with an about excellent bore. The metal surfaces retain about 95% later buffed hot immersion blue. The smooth walnut pistolgrip Monte Carlo style stock rates about very good, is now devoid of varnish but shows only minor handling marks and dings from the years. It has been fitted with a recoil pad and 1" spacer for a 14 1/2" length of pull. There are white plastic gripcap and forend tip with contrasting black spacers. The rifle is sighted with a Redfield banded front ramp which supports a gold bead and the rear receiver sight has been removed. The receiver has been professionally drilled and tapped for Weaver bases which mount a Weaver steel tube telescopic sight with duplex reticle and bright excellent optics. The bolt handle has been forged low for scope clearance and there is a low scope safety installed. (37176-30) {MODERN} (250/450)
2023. CUSTOM BSA MARTINI SINGLE SHOT TARGET RIFLE serial #P68307, 22 LR, 29" barrel with a poor bore which is oxidized, shows a ring halfway down its length. The metal surfaces are overall lightly oxidized surface rust with generous original blue beneath. There are some tool marks on the barrel, perhaps from someone's attempt at removing it. There is no forestock, however there is a semi-inletted Monte Carlo-style buttstock attached to the frame with semi-rollover cheekpiece and teardrop pigsfoot pistolgrip; again it is a semi-inlet and will need fitting and finishing. (37226-1) {MODERN} (50/150)
2024. MARLIN BALLARD NO. 6 1/2 OFF HAND MIDRANGE RIFLE serial #19405, (re-barreled to) 22 LR, 29 3/4" Winchester Repeating Arms Co #3 contour octagon barrel with a fair bore. The barrel is an overall lightly oxidized patina showing scattered oxidation and some minor, and some moderate, pitting. The frame shows some remnants of silvery case-hardening but is primarily the brown base metal along with some minor tool marks and minor and moderate pitting. The arm is equipped with double set triggers and finger loop lever. The s-handled pistolgrip buttstock with flared left side cheekpiece rates very good with only light dings and handling marks from the years and only one small "Ballard crack" on its right side at the frame. The buttplate has been removed. Overall a very good frame-buttstock combination for building a quality Marlin Ballard Schuetzen or offhand rifle with. (3725-16) {ANTIQUÉ} (450/650)
2025. MAUSER MODEL 1895 CHILEAN SPORTER Serial #A6924, 7mm Mauser, 23" barrel with a poor bore. The metal surfaces retain about 90% later hot immersion blue, the rear sight has been removed and that section of the barrel shows minor oxidation; there is scattered minor oxidation over the balance of the metal surfaces and the bolt knob has oxidized. The European walnut stock rates about very good as sporterized with a minor crack at the rear of the upper tang and some moderate oil soaking left and right of tang. The receiver has been drilled and tapped for Weaver bases which support a Westernfield 4x telescopic sight with crosshair reticle and cloudy optics. The bolt handle has been forged low for scope clearance and there is a low scope safety installed. QD sling swivels are installed. (37340-41) {MODERN} (50/150)
2026. HOPKINS & ALLEN NUMRICH ARMS COMPANY UNDERHAMMER PERCUSSION RIFLE .45 cal., 18 1/2" round barrel with an oxidized bore. The metal surfaces are a dull gray patina with light oxidation over all, a few spots which may be characterized as moderate. The walnut stock rates very good showing a few minor dings and handling marks from the years. There are American one cent wheat pennies inlaid left and right on the forearm area with common finish nails. The ramrod thimble is missing from beneath the barrel however the mechanism seems to function. There is a brass bead front sight installed and Marbles sporting rear. (37340-38) {ANTIQUÉ} (25/50)
2027. HOPKINS & ALLEN NUMRICH ARMS COMPANY UNDERHAMMER "THE OFFHAND" PERCUSSION RIFLE About .36 cal. percussion, 33" octagon barrel with a heavily oxidized bore. The classic style checkered capped pistolgrip walnut stock rates very good showing minor dings and handling marks overall from the years with a generous German left-side cheekpiece, the checkering now worn to flattop. The forend is in a similar state of condition showing a bit more wear and a couple minor chips. There is a cartridge trap along the toeline, the door hangs loose. The rear handguard is from a Krag rifle, the front is a trimmed 1903 handguard, a trapdoor-style steel pistolgrip has been fitted along the toeline. The buttplate is solid without trapdoor and the safety has been modified however still works as-designed. The rifle is sighted with Krag Jorgensen front and rears. An interesting assemblage overall. As with all low-number to Springfields, this arm is sold as a curio for the student of martial arms only and should not be fired. (37533-1) {MODERN} (150/250)

2086. STEVENS MODEL 1888 HUNTERS PET POCKET RIFLE serial #4188, .32 cal. RF, 18" octagon barrel with a bright about excellent bore. The metal surfaces of the barrel retain trace original blue with widely scattered surface oxidation and one area at the center of the barrel where there is moderate oxidation and heavy pitting on four of the flats. The frame retains about 92% original nickel plate, the loss is due to flaking to brown. The hammer and trigger are primarily an oxidized brown patina, the hammer with some nice fire temper blue at its root. The smooth walnut grips rate about very good, they are pencil-numbered to the gun. Numbers are matching on both barrel and frame and lockup is actually very good. The barrel shows near overall light pitting, as does the ejector rod pivot with scattered light pitting on the cylinder as well, perhaps with a few spots which are slightly more moderate. There is no grip frame present and it would appear as though a number of small screws are missing. It is highly likely that there are internal parts missing as well although the hammer will cock and hold. The mouths of the chambers show some light peening from the firing pin face making contact with their edges as the cylinder rotates. Overall an excellent parts candidate. (37118-8) {ANTIQUE} (200/400)

This six shot model has all of the chambers loaded and capped, the remnants of caps can be seen on most of the nipples, the arm is currently on its half-cock rest. The revolver has overall heavy and extremely heavy pitting and oxidation. The brass triggerguard and grip frame are dull ocher patina with some strong remnants of original silver plate. There is no evidence of the wooden grip. Mr. Riggs's notes state that this was found in the lava beds in Northern California at the sight of the Modoc Indian Wars and evidently for years hung in the "Snug Bar" in Hailey Idaho. A really interesting Manhattan Navy Model, clearly lost when it was "ready for business". (36229-664) (ANTIQUE) [Elliott Riggs Collection] (500/700)

2093. UNMARKED EUROPEAN DOUBLE-BARRELED PERCUSSION PISTOL serial #3263, about .45 cal., 3" round barrels with oxidized bores. The barrels show remnants of a contrasting dark gray and flight brown damascus pattern also with light pitting. The frame is a pewter and plum patina with some very loose, very light scroll. The bow of the guard shows some light pitting and there is sparsely scattered oxidation here and there. The bag shaped European walnut grip rates good with flaking original varnish and a small chip missing from its left leading edge. One of the hammers is a gunsmith-made replacement. The gun functions loosely mechanically. (37385-15) (ANTIQUE) (50/100)

2094. WEBLEY MK VI DOUBLE ACTION REVOLVER FRAME serial #402474 This is a frame assembly only, sans the barrel and cylinder, with checkered hard rubber grips present. The assembly rates overall very good with perhaps 85% original blue and a scattered speck of light oxidation here there. 2096. WESSON AND HARRINGTON MODEL NO. 1 22 CAL. REVOLVER serial #1245, 22 RF, 2 5/8" octagon barrel with a fair board. The barrel is primarily a flight brown patina showing some generous traces of original blue, perhaps 20%, in the protected areas. The cylinder is now primarily a dull plum with generous traces of blue within the flutes one of the chambers which is split its full length, also showing some minor pin marks. The hammer shows some very good color case-hardening while the trigger has toned primarily to a dull pewter. The brass frame shows some generous trace original silverplate, primarily on the left side. The smooth rosewood grip rates very good plus to near excellent with only minor wear along the sharp edges of the butt, they are stamp-number to the gun and both barrel and frame our matching numbered as well. The gun seems to time well and lock up properly however the trigger spring is clearly missing and the hammer will not cock unless forward tension is put on the trigger proper. A nice first model with a shorter-than-normal barrel, clearly factory however. (37333-9) (ANTIQUE) (100/200)

2097. WILLIAM UHLINGER 32 CALIBER POCKET REVOLVER .32 RF, 5" octagon barrel with a good to near very good bore. The metal surfaces are an overall dull pewter gray patina with scattered plum and brown oxidation staining a minor handling mark here or there and some light pinprick pitting scattered about the surface. The smooth rosewood grips rate very good and near good, the right grip showing some sanding and refinishing which has left the metal quite proud at the frame, the left grip fitting well, both are stamped on the inside "1436" although no evidence of a serial number can be found on the gun itself, only the cylinder which is indeed numbered alike. The center portion begins with the H logo and includes the cartridge image including ".22 Long Rifle" and then "Rim Fire". Below that is "Lesmok Rifle Cartridges". The yellow side label, also fully intact bears a front with the guarantee statement above the codes 143 and 8-20. Also noteworthy is the remnant of a small strip of tape, perhaps a surcharge label. The sides include the big bold W and the back adds that these are "Target Cartridges". Also evident are crisp edges and scattered light dark spots. The second box shares some identical characteristics as it is a full box of original cartridges, these however being .22 Short, a faded olive green top and a yellow side label. This example has been opened and reveals very good ammunition. The top label has identical layout with the exception of the right center having the Stetson patent info rather than "Rim Fire". The side label is coded 141 and 9-14 and the box shows mild wear and an overall brownish patina. The last box is empty with the code 15 at the lower right and 10-8 lower left of the green top label declaring this as .22 Short. This is the version with "Smokeless" presented in red in a diagonal layout over "Rifle Cartridges". This has virtually entirely intact labels, mild wear and a dark overall appearance with spots of grime. A nice trio of examples for the Winchester or .22 box collector; the second half of the lot contains five empty one-piece boxes by CIL/Dominion beginning with three of the 500 rd. variety. The first one is a .22 Short that has a separated top panel stating that it is "Made In Canada By/Canadian Industries Limited/Dominion". This is the style with the buff colored box with blue graphics, this one rating good plus with a small portion cut out and missing. The second box has the same color scheme, this one slightly larger as it is for .22 LR Whiz-Bang and, as is the case for the one above, Super Clean Dry Lubricated Bullet. The top flap is partially split with the balance intact. The front panel has an ink note bringing the overall condition to near very good for this No. 713 coded example that exhibits only the CIL name. The last of the 500 rounders is a yellow and black outer brick box for Imperial 22 LR and rates very good with a moderate scuff on the right panel and tape residue. The other two are 50 rd. size beginning with an excellent RF-32, a buff colored .22 LR Super Clean standard velocity with blue and red graphics. Lastly is one that opens at the RF-11 coded top flap, a 22 Short Whiz-Bang with the red, yellow and blue graphics and rating excellent. (1X76679-28,49BG)

The box has a red label with a faded top portion that features the Robin Hood logo in the middle and reads "50 .32 Cal. This top portion reveals a 2" split that runs diagonally across the middle and has separated slightly below the logo and a small portion is missing at the bottom far right where some of the text is difficult to discern due to wear. The label extends to the sides where an illustration of one of the cartridges is featured with "32/S.&W." within it and accompanied by the following: "50-.32 S.&W.-50/Center Fire/Smokeless", with the left side intact and about 30% missing from the right. 4001. CAST IRON CANNON BARREL This is roughly-cast and could almost be considered a scale model of a British three-pounder. There is an about 1 3/4" bore about 33" deep with a rough as-cast bore showing a mould seam down the center of each side. There is a rough-cast muzzle face, slightly flaring muzzle ring, a smooth chase to two medials ahead of the trunnions-they are unturned. There is another medial just ahead of what would be the breech reinforce, but there is no actual "re-enforce" per se as the tube merely tapers front to rear without additional heavier reinforcing steps. There is a breech ring and a somewhat smallish cascabel giving an overall length of about 40". The trunnions are about 1 1/2" in diameter and about 3" long, they appear welded to the tube rather than being cast integrally. The tube is not vented and weight is 125 Lbs. A nice base overall for someone wishing to do their own final finishing for a display gun or the craftsman who wishes to go even further and machine the tube for a high tensile steel liner.
